

Family Check-Up

FCU promotes social and emotional adjustment in children by reducing coercive and negative parenting, increasing positive parenting, and reducing maternal depression. Targeted outcomes in early childhood include reductions in behavioral problems at home and school, reductions in emotional distress, and increases in self-regulation and school readiness. See reachinstitute.asu.edu/programs/family-check-up for details.

What is the model’s approach to providing home visiting services?	The model is adaptive and tailored to each family. The frequency of home visits varies by families’ needs. Families typically receive a total of six to nine home visits. FCU requires families to initiate services when the child is between 2 and 8 years old. FCU serves all families with young children and does not recommend or require any specific family characteristics for enrollment.
Who is implementing the model?	Home Visitors The model recommends a master’s degree for home visitors. There are no requirements for home visitor caseload limits. Supervisors The model requires a master’s degree for supervisors.
Where is the model implemented?	   FCU operated across six states in 2018.

The NHVRC is led by James Bell Associates in partnership with the Urban Institute. Support is provided by the Heising-Simons Foundation and the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation. The views expressed here do not necessarily reflect the views of the foundations. For details about the methodology, see the 2019 Home Visiting Yearbook.

